

The Chile Chico

May 2013- Vol. 35

The Tumpline armada during our May family canoe trip on the W. Branch of the Susquehanna River

You couldn't have asked for a nicer day. The temperature was perfect, sun was a shinin', and it was too early for bugs! Life is good. Tumpline's first trip of the year was a big hit. Thirty participants ranging from 3 to the mid seventies canoed the most remote region of Pennsylvania. We dined on ham with mac & cheese, followed by devotions and singing around the campfire. Everyone enjoyed the huge marshmallows for their smores! Next morning we had sausage and my famous pancakes! (No brag, just fact!) Sorry you missed out. Maybe next time!!

....and yes, there is page two for this edition of the Chile Chico. Thanks to Erien for her artwork!

Two fathers teaching their children!

Havin' a good time!!

There is still room on our backpacking trip to the Bob Marshall Wilderness in Montana. Hope to see you during once of our adventures!

Erien got all the trees, mountains, and even the different canoe colors (although I must admit I missed the big waterfall on this river and the Christmas tree!)
